

Fall/Winter 2019

SDX19 - Wednesday, Sept. 4

Living with Tension

Consensus rarely yields breakthrough change. Embracing, rather than resolving, tension is at the core of systems change practice. SDX welcomes InWithForward for a special full-day workshop.

SDX20 - Thursday, Nov. 7

Design by Doing 2.0

Social innovation processes commonly reflect dominant, western approaches to problem-solving. Explore a living example of how people are adapting these processes to reflect their unique worldviews.

SDX21 - Friday, Dec. 6

Prototype for Empathy

Systemic change requires empathy and imagination. Test and explore how personal journals, visual memories, and art-making can foster empathy across histories, people, and geographies.

SDX is an Edmonton-based community of practice that brings together people who want to make change on messy and important, real world topics. Together, we explore systems thinking, design thinking, and other new and emerging approaches to complexity.

With a bias towards learning by doing, SDX aims to be a watering hole where a diverse array of humans can come together, learn together, and act together.

SDX is convened by the Government of Alberta CoLab and the Skills Society Action Lab.

Unless otherwise stated, all SDX Sessions take place in the afternoon at the Action Lab: 2nd Floor, 10408-124 Street, Edmonton

RSVP Required. Please see Eventbrite or Twitter for registration information.

 sdxpractice@gmail.com

 skillssociety.ca/projects/sdx

 @SDXCoP

Systemic Design exchange