

Spring 2019

SDX16 - Friday, March 29

Grounded Change

SDX welcomes InWithForward to share how they generate insights from ethnographic data. See what it looks like to move from research to ideas, and what makes for a potentially path breaking idea. Hint: values.

SDX17 - Wednesday, May 8

Opioids Don't Discriminate: Scaling Out

Join folks from Strathcona County to help build out the next phase of their work on the opioid crisis - how to scale their interactive exhibit for use by other communities.

SDX18 - Wednesday, June 26

Power Play

Exploring power dynamics through gamification, we will get curious about how to make the role of power explicit in our facilitation, co-design, and policy work.

SDX is an Edmonton-based Community of Practice that convenes people interested in learning about systemic design as a methodology for addressing complex, real world issues. Together, we explore systems thinking, design thinking, and lab approaches.

With a bias towards learning by doing, SDX aims to be a watering hole where multiple sectors can come together, learn together, and act together.

SDX is convened by the Government of Alberta CoLab and the Skills Society Action Lab.

All SDX Sessions take place in the afternoon at the Action Lab:
2nd Floor, 10408-124 Street, Edmonton

RSVP Required. Please see Eventbrite or Twitter for registration information. There is a small admission fee for SDX sessions used to cover hosting costs.
